Five Years of CPA NHRC urges effective implementation of provisions enshrined in the CPA

Lalitpur: The Comprehensive Peace Accord (CPA) has completed its fifth year. The Accord was signed between the Government of Nepal and the then CPN (Maoist) to end the decade long armed conflict in the country. Though the implementing of the provisions furnished in the Accord was challenging at the beginning, indications of the Accord, as observed lately, seems to be positive which has fostered optimism from human rights perspective. Ways are now paved for the early conclusion of peace process and the conducive environment for making human rights friendly constitution in particular via the instrumental 7 Point Consensus signed between three major political parties on November 1, 2011.

Though the financial relief as the compensation is disbursed to the conflict victims of human rights violations, the perpetrators of the violations of human rights of serious nature haven't been brought to justice due to the considerable delay in instituting the mechanisms (Truth and Reconciliation Commission and Commission on Enquiry of Enforced Disappearances). This has resulted in the deprivation of justice delivery to the victims languishing for a long time. Even though, the consensus is reached time and again between the chief political parties to compensate the property damaged during the conflict period, to return the confiscated property to the rightful owners and to rehabilitate the displaced persons, it hasn't been translated into action yet.

There has been a little progress in removing the landmines planted during the conflict period, however, it is deemed necessary that the attention of the stakeholders ought to be drawn to the fatal incidents perpetuated from time to time due to unexploded ordnance (UXO).

Similarly, the de-facto situation is such that the recommendations and decisions made by the Commission and the court have not been implemented. Contrarily, the continuity of political protection gripped by the persons involved in crimes has given shelter to the state of impunity.

In the context of the completion of five years of the CPA, therefore, the Commission has appealed to all the concerned parties to realize the past weaknesses and implement the provisions mentioned in the Accord in an absolute practical term.

Govt. releases Rs 1.5 million package for Godar Victims

Janakpur: With the unwavering effort made through the NHRC recommendations, the government has eventually released Rs 1.5 million compensation package to be handed over to the family members of five victims of Godar incident. The compensation Rs 300 thousand each is handed over to the immediate kin of victims Sanjeev Karn, Durgesh Lav, Pramod Narayan Mandal, Shailendra Kumar Yadav and Jitendra Jha, it is learnt.

Non-implementation of NHRC recommendations, four years long correspondence, awfully tiring visits of the victim's family members and NHRC staff to various government actors including the Ministry of Finance, Ministry of Home Affairs, Ministry of Peace and Reconstruction have altogether indicated the obliviousness of government bureaucracy with

As per the information acquired by the NHRC, five local youths were said to have been detained at Biswakarman Chok by the then security forces deployed in the area on October 8, 2003. All five victims were blindfolded and shot dead later before they were buried at the bank of Kamala River situated at Godar VDC of Dhanusha district. The NHRC collected the human remains of the victims upon conducting the series of exhumation at the burial site in August, 2010. The specimen of exhumed remains of the victims is under the process of DNA analysis.

In this concern, the relief as the compensation was allocated by the government as per the NHRC decision forwarded on January 29, 2008 while on prosecution side, as of today, no legal action has been commissioned against the accused SSP Chuda Bahadur Shrestha, SP Kuber Singh Rana, Major Anup Adhikari and CDO Rewati Raman Kafle.

Letter received from Home Ministry with regard to the compensation package for Godar Victims regard to the magnitude of the incidents and state of impunity. Indisputably, there appears a dismal state of affairs concerning the self motivated effort of the state towards the protection of human rights in the country. The family members and the relatives of the victims do not have access and ability to knock the door of Singha Drubar time and again for long awaited justice. Following this, the NHRC has appealed to the government to implement all types of recommendations without any dilly dallying and in an absolute practical term, the report says.

Apart from Chautara, the district headquarter, the team visited Ghumathang, Ramche, Melamchi, Helembu, Kunchok and Eechok VDCs including the governmental and non-governmental stakeholder organizations to carry out on-the-spot monitoring from 5th to 11th November, 2011.

Though women populace comprised of 1, 76,249 of the total 35,7,143 population, the overall status of women's rights in the district wasn't found that satisfactory. Despite the fact that the right to life has been realized in the post conflict scenario of the district, the right to life has been violated at times due to various other reasons.

As per the information received through various stakeholder concerned in the district, a number of incidents of human rights violations were perpetuated against women in the district.

44 participants took part in the programme.

Incidents of HR violations reported amidst normalcy in West: Justice delivery side taps impetus Kaski: Despite the fact that the incidents of human rights violations and excesses are found to be declining, the human rights culture didn't seem to tap development due to the lack of rule of law and pervasive culture of impunity. The sporadic incidents of criminal offenses were reported this month as well due to the lack of peace and security in the districts of west, the report says.

A business person in Myagdi threw a boy named Nikesh, 6, of Kuhu - 4 into Myagdi river for want of a gold coin worth around 25 hundred rupees.

Similarly, the perpetuation of the incidents of physical and mental torture inflicted on the school children was reported rampant in the region. The issue as such was the center of discussion among the participants in an interaction held on "National Framework and Implementation Guidelines on school as a zone of peace 2011. The corporal punishment and inessential political activities in the academic institutions have discarded the children's rights to education in free environment, as per the NHHRC office-Pokhara.

Faulty air services leave impact on commuters of remote districts in Mid West: Right to Freedom of Movement monitored

Jumla: Life in the remote Himalayan districts was hit hard as the irregular air services continue to persist 'free for all' in the region. In this connection, the NHRC sub regional office Jumla carried out monitoring from 7th till 15th November, 2011 following the complaint lodged at the NHRC Central Office with regard to the unmanaged air services including messy selling of tickets, irregular flight schedules, excessive air fare on the part of both private and government owned airlines.

The problematic air services have apparently caused the deprivation of people's right to dignity, right to freedom of movement, right to information and right to access to justice and right to participation in the area, the report submitted from the NHRC sub regional office, Jumla says.

The NHRC team conducted monitoring at the civil aviation office, Jumla, local offices of various airline companies and Nepal Airline Corporation and collected information about the effective air services in the region. The team also carried out on-the-spot monitoring and obtained information from the air passengers traveling to and from mid-west.

During the monitoring, the team discovered the adversely messy airline services both on the part of the Nepal Airline Corporation and private owned airline companies. The tickets were distributed in haphazard manner in the name of quota without maintaining any transparency. Security personnel on duty at the airport were found to be careless in letting the passengers in the airport. The influential persons were given entry allowance without boarding pass. This act obviously jeopardizes the security of the sensitive place like air terminal, the report unveils.

Above all, the widespread irregularity was found in the air fare of the Nepal Airline Corporation, Sita Air, Air Makalu and Goma Air. Despite this, Adi Prasad Neupane, 65 and his blind daughter Jandevi Neupane, 31, of Garjyangkot VDC en-route to Nepalgunj were stranded for 7 consecutive days. Similarly, a few on board passengers of Sita Air were forced to get down from the plane twice.

During the monitoring, the team interacted with the Purna Prasad Neopane-Assistant CDO, Rajesh Nayak -Assistant Manager of Civil Aviation of Jumla, Chakka Dangi, Station-in-Charge of Sita Air, Sadu Acharya of Nepal Airline, Jumla Station Loader, Govinda Acharya, Station-in-Charge of Makalu Air.

The NHRC sub regional office Jumla has, therefore, sent in the recommendations with regard to the deteriorating problems of airline services prevalent in the district.

The recommendations basically stress on the steps to be taken from the concerned Ministry of Tourism and Civil Aviation

NHRC officer interacting with the airport official during the monitoring on air services and freedom of movement in mid-west should promulgate strong policy to maintain uniformity in air fare for the passengers traveling to and from mid-west. GoN ought to give clear directives to the private airline companies to have robust system of operation including the offices established out of the airport which will help fulfill the public grievances at ease. Also it is recommended that the tickets be sold in transparent manner so as to evade the possible black marketing. The surprise monitoring and inspection is deemed necessary on the part of the Civil Aviation to enhance the effectiveness of air services in the area, the report reads.

The team interacted with the students, guardians, teachers, Chair of the school management committee including the local residents in order to collect information about the cause of school closure. NHRC's Appeal to The Chiefs of three Major Political Parties

Lalitpur, September 22, 2011

Subject: Drawing attention to pledge support

Dear Chairperson,

The contribution of the political parties with regard to the promotion and protection of human rights, as widely known, is significant. The Interim Constitution of Nepal-2007, Comprehensive Peace Accord (CPA) including the recognized international instruments have bestowed the responsibility upon the political parties with regard to aptly management of peace, human rights and political transition. Let me inform you that the National Human Rights Commission (NHRC) has been closely observing the contribution made both by your party and you on individual level to put an end to the ongoing peace process in Nepal. I would like to hereby express my thanks as the Chairperson of the NHRC for the commitment expressed by your party both on organizational and personal level for the promotion and protection of human rights.

Today, there are three main issues that I have raised through this letter:

- a) Independence and Autonomy of the Commission
- b) Transitional Justice and Case Withdrawal
- c) Criminalization of Politics

I express my expectation that your political party including you, as the leader of the major political party, would pledge active and result oriented support to the issues raised herein.

a) Independence and Autonomy of the Commission

You are aware that, established as per the Human Rights Commission Act-1997, the NHRC was elevated to the constitutional body by the Interim Constitution of Nepal - 2007. On the one hand, the NHRC Bill- 2064 is under consideration in the Parliament while on the other hand, there have been debates on the independence and autonomy of the Commission. Provided the Commission is made confined at the disposal of the Government's supervision like any other constitutional bodies, the Commission can't fulfill the responsibilities for the protection and promotion of human rights of the Nepalese people mandated by the constitution. The Commission, therefore, is of the opinion that the jurisdiction demarcated for the Commission should be as per the standards determined by the UN Paris Principles. Likewise, the government agencies are least bothered to implement the NHRC recommendations. The government is oblivious to adhere to the recommendations that appeal to take action against the accused as per law. We are, therefore, very much eager to know the perception of your party regarding the independence and autonomy of the Commission. Similarly, I expect active support for the promulgation of effective legal provision for the implementation of the NHRC recommendations from your party and your end.

b) Transitional Justice and Case Withdrawal

I believe that, by now, you must have been informed through media about the letter that I sent to Rt. Honorable Prime Minister on the "Case Withdrawal and Amnesty." I had, through the letter, formally drawn the attention of the Prime Minister to take substantial step towards peace process, to not withdraw the case of political crimes of criminal nature and to have the governance in compliance with the rule of law.

The days that followed the Comprehensive Peace Accord (CPA) do not appear to be encouraging from human rights perspectives. It seems that most of the days were spent in the derailment of the peace process rather than sincerely implementing the commitments on human rights. Even after elapsing of 5 years of CPA, there has been considerable delay in the formation of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission (TRC) though a few attempts have been made by the GoN with regard to transitional justice. On the one hand, the perpetrators with regard to human rights violations haven't been brought to justice and the victims and their families haven't been delivered justice due to the absence of the mechanism as such. While, on the other hand, the accused security personnel have been rewarded with promotion and the process of arbitrary withdrawal of cases against the persons affiliated to each major political party without following any reasonable and set standard has never afforded the policy to withdraw the cases and grant of amnesty of the government to be legal and transparent.

Here, I must stress the fact that the cases of human rights violations occurred during the decade long armed conflict and those cases pertaining to post-conflict period have been placed in the same categories under the CPA and the Interim Constitution of Nepal. It is, therefore, by design, perceptible that it wouldn't be appropriate to treat them at par and apply uniform standard to the cases of both period. This would not be consonant with justice, wisdom and norms and values of international human rights. NHRC has perceived this clearly and would like to be explicit in this regard. You are well aware of the fact that the decision to withdraw the cases and to reward promotion to the security personnel already convicted of human rights violation which was done by the governments of all the three major parties viz. Nepali Congress, UCPN (Maoists) and CPN (UML) have been the issue of intense debate and disapproval among entire human rights communities.

In recent times, the agreement has been reached between the UCPN-Maoist and the UDMF to withdraw all the cases related to the Maoist armed conflict and movements of Madhesis, Janajatis, Dalits, Tharuhat and disadvantaged groups and to grant clemency in cases instituted against them. NHRC has expressed serious concern on the withdrawal of cases which might include the cases of grave human rights violations and crimes against humanity. I would like to remind you that the TRC, as endowed with provision by the Interim Constitution of Nepal- 2007, would be the last resort to decide the type of cases whether they are of political nature or not. Therefore, the TRC bears the responsibility to distinguish between cases whether they are of political or of criminal nature. In this regard, one cannot have the undue assumption pertaining to the cases to be, by design, of falsified nature just because of the involvement of the political leaders or the cadres in those cases. In other words, the process of the instituting the TRC cannot be sidelined on such ground. If such a step is taken at all, it would be against existing constitution and peace process.

The CPA-2007, as a part of the Constitution, emphasizes chiefly on the management of the combatants, rehabilitation and arms management, guarantee of human rights and stabilizing normalcy. Under the section 5.2.5 of the CPA, it is mentioned that 'Both sides agree to establish through mutual consensus a high-level Truth and Reconciliation Commission to investigate truth about those who committed grave human rights violations and involved in crime against humanity during the armed conflict and to create an environment of reconciliation in society.'

Therefore, the remedial solution to the incidents with regard to the human rights violation and excess occurred during the past armed conflict should be found out through the TRC provisioned through the CPA and the Interim Constitution of Nepal. The existing legal procedures must be applied to address the pre-conflict and post-CPA incidents. The Commission has time and again brought this matter, both in written and verbal, to the notice of each government formed after the CPA was signed.

The NHRC is not negative about the withdrawal of falsified cases filed on the political ground during the Peoples' Movement and various other Movements launched by the deprived and marginalized communities for autonomy and rights. Nor do we have any objection against the withdrawal of the false cases. The Commission expresses dissatisfaction over the process of withdrawal of cases or grant of amnesty to be offered to the cases to which the court has already dispensed decision. The Commission, in particular, stresses on the involvement of the TRC formed by the GoN for the investigation and enquiry to reach the decision on such cases.

c) Criminalization of Politics

The state of impunity is on the rise because those persons, who have been granted immunity through judicial process by withdrawing cases of the past on the basis of their political conviction, have been enjoying their stronghold in the political parties. Subsequently, the situation is such that the administrative judiciary and the police cannot implement the existing law. During my recent visit to the eastern region of the country, those incidents which were found to have link with politics, never reached to the police administration. Even if they reached to the police, the latter either didn't register the case or showed obliviousness to file the case as per the public grievance in the area.

There is possibility for the people in general to develop dispirited notion towards the entire politics as because various political figures have been indulged in crimes and also the accused of heinous crimes often acquire shelter under a particular political party after CPA. This obviously is downright problematic scenario. It is well known that rage and erosion in confidence of general citizens towards political figures and the increasing dispirited impression towards politics would be dangerous for democracy and human rights. Crimes being dominion over politics, the incidents of violence and crimes have been on the rise within a single party. It has been rather difficult to drag those involved in crimes into justice through regular process. As a consequence, human rights and rule of law have been in full of crises day by day.

Finally, the NHRC is in view that the constitutional or legal provisions pertaining to the withdrawal of the cases or grant of amnesty without prior probe or investigation should have appendage attached to conform to globally recognized international human rights norms and values. Since TRC is the only way out to settle down the incidents related to the conflict period, I expect that your party would pledge support to form the long pending mechanisms without any dilly dallying to give impetus to judicial process and to protect human rights and rule of law thereby discarding the dominance of the people having criminal background in political parties.

NHRC welcomes the Consensus for Constitution and Peace: The formation of effective transitional mechanisms urged Lalitpur: The National Human Rights Commission, by issuing a press release, has welcomed the consensus for peace and constitution reached between the chief political parties on November 1, 2011. 'Having signed the consensus at the threshold of the fifth year anniversary of the Comprehensive Peace Agreement (CPA), the NHRC is assured that such a breakthrough would expedite the peace process towards conclusion and framing of human rights friendly constitution.' the press release reads.

The formation of Truth and Reconciliation Commission and the Commission on Enquiry of Enforced Disappearances within one month has brought in a ray of hope for early delivery of justice to the victims of conflict related incidents of human rights violations. In this regard, the NHRC has been conducting investigation and maintaining documentation on the incidents of human rights violations of armed conflict period ever since. In this context, the NHRC is all set to collaborate upfront with the newly formed mechanisms. Equally crucial is the formation of mechanisms for transitional justice in accordance with the international standards of human rights which ought to be independent, competent and reliable, the press release says.

The press release further states that the issues such as the fair distribution of relief to the conflict victims, returning of the confiscated property to the rightful owners, and ensuring the rights of peasants through scientific land reforms have been prioritized in the Consensus. This is very much positive endeavor from human rights perspective.

The Commission has, therefore, appealed to all the concerned parties to render necessary support for the effective implementation of the consensus reached between the three major political parties including Samyukta Loktrantri Madhesi Morcha (Unified Democratic Madhesi Front), protect human rights and put an end to the state of impunity.

Participants at a consultation held on draft on Govt. periodic report on CRC prepared and shared to the NHRC for necessary inputs

Lalitpur: Chairperson Justice Kedar Nath Upadhyaya has said, 'Child rights are often placed in double digit column in the list of rights as because the children cannot articulate to raise voice for their rights all by themselves. The recent abduction and killing of a child to take undue vengeance of the family speaks off pathetic scenario of child rights in the country.'

At the programme, child rights specialist Mr. Shiva Poudel presented the paper on the combined 3rd, 4th and 5th draft report on the CRC to be submitted to the CRC Committee, Geneva. The objective of the programme was to obtain suggestions and comments from the representatives of the concerned stakeholder organizations on the draft report shared by the government.

Speaking as the chair of the consultative programme on the CRC draft report held on 28th November, 2011, the Chairperson said, 'Amidst the incidents of stringent crime of kidnapping and killing, illegal adoption is ceaselessly prevalent. Disposing of bad laws, commissioning of legal reform as well as fast track code, therefore, would be a way out to control and prevent the trafficking of children in guise of adoption.'

Adding that NHRC is in view of having outreach expansion across the country in all 75 districts, the Chairperson said, 'In the scenario of all commissions becoming constitutional bodies, the NHRC conceptually envisages for an umbrella Commission having its 'Ex-Officio' at the center. The litigious issue, nonetheless, is evolving the Child Rights Commission. We got to see how far these matters can be materialized in the days to come.'

Thanking the child rights specialist Shiva Poudel for his presentation on the draft report, the Chairperson said, 'We have to think seriously about the ratification of all those treaties related to child rights before we send in the recommendation. The need of the hour is to assess how successful is the state in implementing the existing CRC.'

Facilitating the input on the report, Member Ram Nagina Singh said, 'Citizenship provision is entailed with a problematic cleavage of birth registration as the VDC secretaries aren't reinstated yet. With regard to the child court and child rehabilitation center, there is a bench in the court. However, the rehabilitation centers are yet to take their shape.'

'Situation is such that, ironically, despite the apex court decision, Chief District Officer is reluctant to provide the citizenship in the name of mother on the ground that Home Ministry hasn't issued any written directives as such.' Member Singh reiterated.

Member Gauri Pradhan said, 'At a time when ICC has reviewed the NHRC's UPR inclusively of child rights situation in the country, government has made 31 commitments in the CRC report of the past. We got to examine the principle setbacks of the outcome and impact assessment. In other words, attention should be drawn to the implementation side, however.'

'While we review the general and specific comments, we should bear in mind why mainstreaming of child rights couldn't be realized. In this concern, the non-governmental organizations working in the field of child rights demonstrate their contemplation to raise their voice for the inception of Child Rights Commission which is inevitable at the moment,' Member Pradhan urged.

Concluding his remark, Member Pradhan said, 'NHRC will conduct thorough study of the report. We have gathered all of your comments and suggestions which will be incorporated in the report prior to sending it to the concerned.
